A report from the U.S. Justice Department has revealed that Google, Apple, and Amazon have amassed an unprecedented level of influence over the digital advertising market. The report, which was issued by the department's antitrust division last year, has shed light on the extent to which big tech companies can stifle competitors through the use of their extensive market power. According to the report, the trio of companies exerts a strong influence over the market and maintain extensive partnerships that allow them to benefit from the data they collect from users and their devices. Google According to the report, Google's search engine operates "in
